1. My colleagues and I in this staff are extremely grateful to you for the thought and time you gave to the suggested list of topics for CIPC studies. Since the agenda of the CIPC has been virtually completed, we have an important opportunity not only to consider new topics but new directions for the Committee. It was in this latter context that your suggestions were particularly helpful. All of us were stimulated to consider lines of inquiry which we had not entertained before. You point out that some of your suggested topics go beyond what has been considered the traditional purview of the Intelligence Community. Your memo has encouraged us to expand our horizons in ways that can only be beneficial.

2. We are now in the process of receiving candidate topics from the CIPC members. These together with the suggestions of this staff will be vetted by the Committee, which will produce a proposed agenda for the DCI's consideration. Any additional ideas you may have would be most welcome.
